Dear Luminus Customers,

Luminus would like to provide an update on our ability to fulfill customer orders given the current global situation relating to the spread of the new coronavirus in China. As China and the rest of the world work on containing the spread of this disease, disruptions and uncertainty have been introduced into supply chains in China. The fact that many factories are currently shut down for the Chinese New Year Holiday period adds an extra layer of uncertainty.

Even though this force majeure type situation has arisen abruptly, Luminus can report that:

- Our major 3PL Order Fulfillment Hub in Hong Kong plans to open as scheduled and ship products beginning on Monday, Feb 3, 2020.
- Our manufacturing presence in China is likely to be impacted by an extra week of downtime. We have no manufacturing presence or suppliers in the hardest hit Hubei Province, but may be impacted if other Provinces enact restrictions on business.
- Our manufacturing presence in Asia outside of China is currently unaffected and will be operating as normal.

Luminus will monitor the situation and its effect on delivery dates and keep you posted in case delivery delays arise.
